LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

(ANNUAL REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1933.)

Printed under No. 8 Report from Printing Committee, 12 July, 1934.

The Inspector-General of Police to the Honorable the Chief Secretary.

Police Department, Inspector-General's Office, 4 April, 1934.

Dear Sir,

The Annual Report on the operations of the Police Department of New South Wales for the year 1933, is submitted for the Chief Secretary's information.

Provision for Additional Police Protection.—The suspension in 1930 of recruiting for the Police Force was, on account of the financial position, continued during 1931 and 1932. During 1933, however, the Government found it possible to authorise the appointment of fifty recruits with a view to satisfying most urgent requirements for Police protection in various localities. Action was thereupon taken to review carefully the qualifications of the various eligible candidates awaiting appointment to the Police Service, in order to appoint the number authorised by the Government. The extension of the Police Box System and the appointment of a number of Police Cadets, as referred to later on in this report, enabled the Department to make arrangements whereby additional Police protection is available in various suburbs.

Departmental Business.—The total number of files dealt with in the Inspector-General's office during 1933 was 423,570, the total for 1932 being 384,277.

Position in Regard to Crime.—It will be seen from the return of Police cases dealt with by the Courts in this State during the year ended 31st December, 1933, that the position in regard to crime is as follows:—
(a) There were substantial increases, viz., 1,357 and 1,701, respectively, under the headings "Offences against property without violence," and "Offences against property with violence"; (b) on the other hand, there were appreciable decreases of 547 and 257, respectively, under the headings "Offences against the person," and "Forgery and offences against the currency," the nett increase in the number of serious cases dealt with by the Courts being 2,254; (c) minor cases under the heading, "Offences against good order" show an increase of 2,749, while under the heading "Breaches of Acts generally, including offences not otherwise provided for," there was a large increase of 4,790; (d) the nett increase under all headings of the return was 9,793.

CRIMINAL STATISTICS FOR THE STATE GENERALLY.

Appendix A.—Particulars concerning the number of Police cases brought before the Courts in this State during 1933 are set out in Appendix A of this report. The figures furnished therein include all cases dealt with by the Police (either by arrest or summons), and afford a comparison with those for 1930, 1931, and 1932.

	1930.	1931.	1932.	1933.	Increase o Decrease (1933) ove 1932.	191
Offences against the person		4,017	4,206	3,659	dec. 54
Offences against property with violence	4,776	4,666	4,052	5,753	inc. 1,70
Offences against property without violence	14,485	16,553	17,234	18,591	inc. 1,35
Forgery and offences against the currency		325	457	200	dec. 25	2000
Offences against good order	44,026	38,617	38,886	41,635	inc. 2,74	49
Breaches of Acts generally including offences not otherwise provided for.	56,882	57,565	51,506	56,296	inc. 4,79	90
Totals	124,538	121,743	116,341	126,134	inc. 9,79	93

Of the total of 126,134 offences, 26,717 cases related to breaches of the Traffic Laws (Motor Traffic Act, 1909–1930, Metropolitan Traffic Act, 1900–1930 and Regulations under these Acts, and the Motor Tax Management Act, 1914). The prosecutions for breaches of the Traffic Laws show a nett increase of 4,472 as compared with the total for 1932.

As shown by the Criminal Statistics for the State generally, there was a large increase in the number of cases brought before the Courts as regards both serious offences and minor offences. The principal increases under the various headings in Appendix A were: Manslaughter, 7; demanding property with menaces or threat, and robbery, offender being armed, 25; sexual offences against females, 26; unnatural offences, 19; burglary, and breaking and entering or attempts at, 1,580; maliciously injuring property, 99; simple larceny or attempts at, 339; embezzlement, 129; obtaining goods or money by false pretences, 1,365; supposed stolen goods in custody, 66; possessing or uttering counterfeit coin, 44; drunkenness, 3,948; using profane, indecent or obscene language, 264; playing games to the annoyance of passengers or esidents, 316; conspiracy, 52; and breaches of the following Acts: Aborigines Protection, 51; Child Welfare, 88; Deserted Wives and Children, 104; Dog and Goat, 171; Fisheries, 211; Gaming and Betting, 921; Hawkers and Pedlars, 60; Impounding, 61; Land and Income Tax, 289; Liquor, 416; Metropolitan Traffic and Regulations, 880; Motor Traffic and Regulations, 3,632; Pastures Protection, 508; Post and Telegraph, 246; Sunday Trading (Refreshment Rooms), 46; Totalizator, 242; Transport, 94; and Vagrancy, 141.

The main decreases were: Murder and attempt to murder, 24; inflict grievous bodily harm or attempts to, 18; assault an officer in the execution of his duty, 69; assault in company, 11; assaulting females, 59; common assault, 435; stealing in a dwelling, 267; stealing animals or birds ordinarily kept in confinement, 135; being found at night with intent to commit felony and entering dwelling houses at night with intent to steal, 58; unlawfully using another's vehicle or boat, 119; forging and uttering, 305; using threatening, abusive or insulting words, 176; travelling without paying fare, 1,774; and breaches of the following Acts: Birds and Animals Protection, 62; Bread, 110; Factories and Shops, 102; Government Railways and By-laws, 340; Industrial Arbitration, 783; Landlord and Tenant, 839; Local Government and Ordinances, 127; Lunacy, 77; Motor Tax Management, 40; Public Instruction, 45; Stamp Duties 138; Sydney Corporation, 59; and Weights and Measures, 69.

Serious Crime Cleared up.—Particulars which have been furnished in regard to the amount of serious crime cleared up by the Police throughout the State show a satisfactory position. This is indicated by the following table:—

	Year.	Number of Serious Crimes Reported.	Number of Serious Crimes Cleared Up.	Percentage Accounted for.
1932		 24,976	15,529	62
1933		 26,611	20,791	78

Drug Traffic.—The prevalence of the drug-taking habit was again noticeable during 1933. The drug traffic in New South Wales, however, is being kept in check, and during the year there was a considerable falling off in the illicit traffic in cocaine. This can be attributed to the activities of the Police specially detailed to investigate such matters, together with the work performed by the Police generally under the "consorting" provisions of the Vagrancy Act, and the heavy penalties imposed by the Courts. Authorised traders are kept under strict supervision and practically no drugs are diverted into illicit channels from this source.

During 1933 there were three prosecutions under the Regulations made in accordance with the provisions of the Police Offences Amendment (Drugs) Act. In each instance the offenders were holders of licenses. Illicit traders appear to obtain the bulk of their supplies from the crews of vessels coming to Australia from Asiatic waters. The following particulars show the number of prosecutions for trafficking in opium and the quantities of prepared opium and opium ash seized by the Police in this State during the year 1933:—

Opium in possession.—25 Chinese were convicted for this offence and were fined amounts totalling £425, with alternate terms of imprisonment at the rate of one day's imprisonment for every 10s. of the fine imposed.

Opium smoking.—24 Chinese were convicted of this offence and were fined amounts totalling £84 with alternate terms of imprisonment at the rate of one day for every 10s. of the fine imposed.

Opium pipes in possession.—4 Chinese were convicted for this offence, and fines totalling £9 with alternate terms of imprisonment of one day for every 10s. of the fine imposed. In practically all the above cases the fines were paid.

Eleven pounds of prepared opium and 3 oz. of opium ash were seized by the State Police during the year, all of which was handed over to the Customs Authorities to be destroyed.

In addition to the foregoing details there was also a prosecution for supplying cocaine, the defendant being a chemist, who was fined £100, in default 200 days imprisonment, and action is being taken to have his name removed from the Register of Pharmacists.

Appendix A1.—A graph showing the total number of persons proceeded against, the population of the State, and variations in the actual strength of the Police Force for each year since 1905 is contained in this Appendix.

Crime Reported and Published in Police Gazette.—The total number of cases of serious crime reported to the Police and published in the Police Gazette during 1933 was 6,462, as against 6,681 during 1932.

Juvenile Crime, Appendix B.—Particulars concerning offences committed by juvenile offenders (under the age of 21 years) in the Metropolitan District during 1933 are contained in Appendix B. It is satisfactory to note that the total number of cases in which juveniles were brought before the Courts shows a decrease of 856 during 1933 as compared with the previous year.

Inquests.—The total number of inquests held in 1933 was 1,903, as against 1,853 during 1932. The number of inquests on dead bodies was 1,754 (total number of bodies being 1,798); the number of inquests in regard to fires was 149.

Wife and Child Desertion.—The number of cases of wife and child desertion reported to the Police in 1933 was 1,275, this number showing a decrease of 268 on the figures for 1932. On the other hand although there was an appreciable decrease in the number of cases reported there was a substantial increase in the number of arrests made, the number of such deserters brought before the Courts in 1933 being 469, and the number dealt with in 1932 being 365.

Extraditions.—During 1933 there was one case of extradition from New South Wales to India, and one case where an offender was brought back from South Africa to this State, CRIMINAL STATISTICS FOR THE METROPOLITAN DISTRICT.

The following table indicates the number of cases dealt with by the Courts in the Metropolitan District during 1933, and similar information for the year 1932:—

		1932.	1933.	Increase or Decrease (1933) over 1932.
Offences against the person	 	2,550	2,215	dec. 335
Offences against property, with violence	 	3,203	4,643	inc. 1,440
Offences against property, without violence	 	11,898	14,040	inc. 2,142
Forgery and offences against the currency	 	385	148	dec. 237
Offences against good order	 	22,507	25,305	inc. 2,798
Offences not included in the preceding	 	33,809	37,320	inc. 3,511
Totals	 	74,352	83,671	inc. 9,319

It will be seen that there was a large increase of 9,319 in the total number of cases dealt with in the Metropolitan District as compared with the total for 1932. This increase is mainly accounted for by breaches of the Traffic Laws—increase 3,912, drunkenness 2,884, burglary, and breaking and entering 1,426, and obtaining goods by false pretences 1,972.

In the Annual Report for 1932 reference was made to the carelessness which many persons displayed when leaving property such as motor vehicles, bicycles, etc., unattended in the public streets, thereby affording opportunities for such property to be stolen.

The following table shows the number of cases in the Metropolitan District during 1933 in which thefts committed have been due to negligence on the part of owners of property. Although there appears to have been an improvement in this direction (the total number of cases for 1932 being 3,505) it is evident there is much room for further improvement:—

In addition to the foregoing particulars it is evident that carelessness has led in numerous cases to the loss of revolvers. Police records concerning such cases show that the position is as follows:—Metropolitan District, revolvers stolen from motor cars, 11; revolvers stolen from houses, etc., 108; Country

Districts, revolvers stolen from houses, 12. It is essential that the utmost care should be taken by the owner of any firearm to see that the weapon is kept safely locked up or kept in a place from which it would be very difficult for it to be stolen.

CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION BRANCH.

Finger-print Section.

Very satisfactory results continue to be obtained in the operations of the Finger-print Section of the Criminal Investigation Branch. The total number of sets of finger-prints received in the Section during 1933 was 18,516 as against 16,173 in 1932. The number of prints identified as those of persons having previous convictions was 9,541, the number of identifications in the previous year being 8,027. In 16 criminal cases the principal evidence before the Court was that of finger-print identification. In 48 other instances the persons charged admitted their guilt thereby obviating the necessity for finger-print evidence to be given. The number of exhibits examined during 1933 by the Finger-print Section was 386 against 616 during the previous year. The decrease in the work of examining exhibits, however, was more than offset by the increase in the number of visits which had to be made by members of the Finger-print Staff to scenes of crime. The number of such visits was 1,543 as compared with 1,044 for 1932. In 77 cases finger-prints found at scenes of crime were identified after examination. In 33 instances the finger-prints of unknown deceased persons were taken and 8 identifications resulted, the finger-prints constituting the only means of establishing identity. An additional 675 prints were filed in the Single Finger-print Cabinet and this system continues to show excellent results.

It might be mentioned that a case at present under investigation has occurred which will prove to be one of the most important from a Police point of view yet dealt with so far as the Finger-print System is concerned. A body which had evidently been in the water for some time was found in the Murrumbidgee River, near Wagga Wagga. After the recovery of the body it was ascertained that the skin was missing from the right hand. This skin was later found with the finger-nails intact, on the river bank near where the body had been brought from the water. It was from this "human glove" that identification was made and an arrest subsequently effected. As, however, the case is sub judice I refrain from reporting further regarding it.

Photographic Section.

During the year 1,069 photographic negatives of criminals were received from the Prisons Department and 11,250 copies of such photographs were despatched to other Australian States and New Zealand. The number of criminal photographs received from the other States of the Commonwealth and from New Zealand during 1933 was 2,695. The members of the staff of the Section took numerous photographs of offenders in Police custody, also copies of finger-prints, documents, cheques, etc., in many cases as well as a considerable number of photographs at scenes of crime.

Modus Operandi Section.

In this Section (which includes the Stolen Property Tracing Section) 16,920 "Modus Operandi" were received and classified during 1933, an increase of 1,200 on the total for 1932. As a direct result of the sending out of 6,010 forms to Police who had persons under arrest for offences carried out by methods similar to those set out in the respective forms, 5,752 cases were cleared up. It is no exaggeration to say that in hundreds of instances the crimes would not have been cleared up without the assistance of the Modus Operandi System of records. Following searches in the records of the Section in cases where torms were received in respect of offences not cleared up, photographs of suspects were forwarded to the Police concerned. By this means alone 130 photographs of criminals were definitely identified as the culprits and in most cases arrest and conviction followed. The total number of cards recorded in the Section covering the names of offenders, methods of operation, etc., during the year was 17,585. The activities of the Section were considerably increased during 1933 and the following additional items are now attended to therein:—(1) Monthly, Quarterly and Annual Crime Returns for the Metropolitan Area, (2) Installation of Photograph Cabinet containing Classified Photographs of criminals at large, (3) Special Book containing record of Murders, (4) Issue of Weekly Lists of persons suspected or wanted, (5) Alphabetical Record of "nicknames" of criminals, (6) New method of filing statements in more important criminal cases, (7) Indexing and filing of special photographs of criminals, (8) Proper record of issue of photographs for Police purposes, (9) Complete record of property recovered and returned to owners, (10) System of prompt notification to the various Divisions when crimes committed therein have been cleared up by arrests in other Divisions, (11) Record of percentage of crime in the various Divisions kept for the guidance of Area Detective-Inspectors, (12) The whole of the Uniformed Police in the Metropolitan Area instructed as to the facilities available at the Criminal Investigation Branch in connection with the detection of crime, (13) All Police Gazette Indices referred to in connection with the investigation of crime now available in the one room, (14) The time of the Detective and Plain Clothes Staff in the principal City Division is conserved by an arrangement whereby practically all typing of reports, etc., on their behalf is carried out in the Section, and (15) Index kept of motor vehicles which are thought likely to be used for the commission of crime.

The number of articles returned last year, stolen and subsequently recovered through the activities of the Section was 638, the total value thereof being over £2,600. The tracing of the property led in 32 instances to the arrest and conviction of offenders who otherwise would probably never have been suspected. Two Police Cadets have been attached to the Section.

WATER POLICE, SYDNEY.

Efficient patrol work was carried out in Port Jackson by the Water Police. In 23 instances they rendered assistance to the crews of boats which were in difficulties on the Harbour, and towed a number of small craft into safety. Forty-seven bodies were recovered from the Harbour, 27 of these being in the vicinity of the Sydney Harbour Bridge. The total number of vessels (other than Naval vessels) entering and leaving the Port during 1933 was 6,442 with a gross tonnage of nearly sixteen and a half millions. These figures represent a marked increase on the total for the previous year. On the other hand, however, the number of passengers carried by ferry boots on the Harbour during 1933 showed a decrease and no doubt this-was largely the result of the opening of the Sydney Harbour Bridge. In May, 1933, the German Cruiser "Koln" visited the Port and berthed at Circular Quey. The vessel was open for public inspection and it is estimated that approximately 18,500 persons visited the cruiser. In connection with the rescue of persons apparently drowned two sets of a special type of resuscitator known as the "Sparklet J. Resuscitator" manufactured in England by Sparklets Limited, have been procured by this Department and supplied to the Water Police in order that a practical test may be made at the first available opportunity. With each resuscitator a number of bulbs containing carbon dioxide is supplied, and it is believed that the resuscitators will enable life to be saved where other means would not be effective.

WATER POLICE, NEWCASTLE.

There was a further increase in shipping activities in Port Hunter during 1933. The number of versuls including interstate steamers which arrived at Newcastle during the year was 7,523, the nett tonnage being 8,263,982 as compared with 3,640,603 tons during the previous year. During sailing races the Water Police rendered assistance to crews of capsized boats in Port Hunter.

WOMEN SPECIAL CONSTABLES.

On the 31st December last there were eight Women Special Constables in the employ of this Department one of them holding the rank of Special Sergeant. Although their activities are largely of a social character they rendered much valuable assistance to the regular members of the Police Force in connection with the investigation of crime, particularly where women and children were concerned. They were responsible for bringing 150 juvenile offenders before the Children's Court during 1933 and were able to arrange for a number of other children to be placed in various homes without having to be brought before the Court. They attended to over 2,000 inquiries and interviews in connection with missing friends, suspicious advertisements, etc.

METROPOLITAN LICENSING INSPECTION.

Hotels.—There was no alteration in the number of hotels in the Metropolitan Licensing District during the year, and at the 31st December last the total remained at 537. Activity in the direction of installing the most modern conveniences in hotel premises continued during 1933. Forty-four applications for permits to make material alterations to licensed premises were granted during the year, and five orders of Court were made under Section 40a of the Liquor Act in respect of re-building, renovations, etc.

In two cases objections to renewal of Publicans' Licenses were lodged by the Police, in one case on the ground that the applicant was not a fit and proper person to hold a license and in the other on the ground that the licensed premises were structurally defective. The applications were, however, granted by the Court.

Fifty applications under Section 57A of the Act for permission to supply liquor with bona fide meals at hotels were approved by the Court.

There was an increase of 3 in the number of Spirit Merchants' Licenses in force at the end of the year, the total number held at the 31st December, 1933, being 111.

There was no alteration in the number of Australian Wine Licenses, viz., 160.

Similarly there was no change in the number of Packet Licenses, 5.

The number of Brewers' Licenses was increased from 2 to 5.

There was a decrease of 9 in the number of Billiard Licenses at 31st December last, 9 licensees having surrendered their licenses. The total number was thus reduced to 101.

Appendix C.—Information regarding convictions in the Metropolitan Licensing District during 1933 for offences under the Liquor Act is set out in Appendix C.

TRAFFIC BRANCH.

Sufety Patrols.—Following upon conferences between representatives of the Police and Education Authorities, a system of School "Safety Patrols" was inaugurated during the year and put into operation at practically all the schools in the Metropolitan Area. Thousands of school children attended at the Police Depot in small batches from time to time and were given tuition and practical demonstrations in the patrol work and "Safety-First" principles. In addition appropriate lectures on these subjects were delivered at various schools by Police Officers. The provision and maintenance by the Commissioner for Road Transport and Tramways of pedestrian "laneways" across the streets in the vicinity of over 100 schools in the Metropolitan Area has afforded valuable assistance in this connection. This innovation is of considerable benefit in enabling school children to cross the streets in safety. It is satisfactory to note that school boys who are acting in the capacity of "Patrol Officers" at various schools are becoming very proficient in their work and in many instances they can now be entrusted with the task of seeing that children safely cross the streets in the vicinity of the schools with only occasional Police supervision.

Traffic Facilities Committee.—Many matters affecting the safety of the public and the expedition of traffic have been considered by the Traffic Facilities Committee appointed under the State Transport (Co-ordination) Act, 1931, which meets at frequent intervals. The question of providing adequate illumination at intersections where Police perform traffic duty at night has been given serious consideration by the Committee, and experiments have been made at suitable intersections with a view to ascertaining the most effective means of illumination.

Mechanical Traffic Control Signals.—An automatic traffic control signal was installed on trial at the intersection of Kent and Market streets on the 13th October, 1933. At first there was an inclination on the part of drivers of vehicles to disregard the automatic signals, and Police attention was necessary to en s proper compliance therewith. The device is at present working in a most satisfactory manner.

Pedestrian Traffic Regulations.—Attention has been given as far as practicable during the year to the regulations for pedestrian traffic, particularly with a view to putting a stop to the practice of what is popularly known as "jay-walking," i.e., crossing streets in such a way as to run risks which would be obviated by adopting the sensible course of proceeding between safety lines provided at the more important intersections, or, where such safety "laneways" are not provided, in a direct line at right angles from kerb to kerb. It is evident, however, that there is considerable room for improvement in the direction of compliance with the regulations, and steps are being taken, with additional Police now available, to make a concerted effort to educate the public in regard to the purpose and benefits of the Regulations.

During the year, 6 female office assistants and 2 Police Cadets were attached to the Police Traffic Branch, and have taken over a considerable amount of clerical work, thereby enabling 5 constables to be made available for active Police duty. The number of "Breach Reports" submitted in connection with traffic offences was 53,684, an increase of 22,702 over the total for the previous year. This increase is mainly accounted for by breaches of the regulations respecting parking. In regard to breaches of the traffic laws, it is the practice to carefully consider all the circumstances connected with each case, and the furnishing of a breach report does not necessarily result in the institution of proceedings. In numerous cases, drivers have good records, showing that they make reasonable efforts to comply with the regulations, and they are suitably dealt with by way of caution, or advised by letter in appropriate terms of their obligation to obey the regulations. The consideration extended in this way is, without doubt, appreciated by drivers of vehicles generally.

There were 266 convictions during the year for driving motor vehicles whilst under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Of that number, 121 drivers had their licenses suspended by the Court, and 13 who were not the holders of drivers'licenses were disqualified for varying periods from holding a license. These figures show a considerable improvement in comparison with the total number of convictions under the same heading for 1932, viz., 319. The number of persons reported for driving vehicles negligently, furiously or recklessly, or at a speed or in a manner dangerous to the public was 716, and 162 were reported for driving on the nearside of stationary trams stopped for the purpose of picking up or setting down passengers. In 72 instances, drivers were reported for failing to stop after an accident had occured.

As a result of motor accidents throughout the State in 1933, there were 292 persons killed (or subsequently died as a result of injuries), and 4,208 persons were injured as against 258 killed and 4.830 injured in 1932. Whilst it is to be regretted that there is a marked increase in the number of accidents with fatal results, this is offset by a large decrease in the number of persons injured. Every effort is made by the Police Authorities to impress upon both drivers of vehicles and pedestrians the necessity for the exercise of the utmost care when using the public thoroughfares.

Appendix D.—A return containing particulars concerning accidents within the Metropolitan district and a return indicating the number of persons killed or injured throughout the State in accidents involving motor vehicles will be found in Appendix D. Additional information in regard to the operations of the Traffic Branch is also included therein.

DEPARTMENTAL MOTOR VEHICLES.

This Department, on the 31st December, 1933, had under its control 228 Departmental motor vehicles, and this total is made up as follows: In the Metropolitan district—15 motor cars, 37 Divisional patrol cars, 4 area cars, 3 motor lorries, 6 patrol vans, 92 motor cycles, and 1 car kept at the Police Depot for instructional purposes; in the Country districts—25 motor cars, 4 patrol vans, and 41 motor cycles. Owing to wear and tear, it was found necessary to replace a number of worn-out motor vehicles with new machines, in order that investigation of crime should not be hampered through lack of adequate transport facilities. On representations being made in this direction, the approval of the Government was obtained for the purchase of 9 new cars and 18 new motor cycles and sidecars.

Bicycles.—In various localities, ordinary bicycles are used for Police patrol work, the number of such bicycles in Police use at the end of 1933 being 310.

INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES, DISTURBANCES, ETC.

There were a few industrial disputes during the year, but they were of a minor character and good order prevailed.

Administrative Changes or Reforms.

A number of administrative changes or reforms were adopted by this Department during 1933. One important change authorised by the Government was the introduction of the system of appointing Police cadets. The number of cadets (youths not less than 16 years of age or over 18 years) appointed was thirty. They were selected from numerous applicants whose education was well above the average, and other qualifications being equal, preference was given to sons of men possessing Police service, i.e., either Police still serving, or retired members of the Force. The qualifications of the applicants appointed as Police cadets were subjected to thorough investigation, and the youths selected are all of a superior type. Some have been attached to Police headquarters, others to various sections of the Criminal Investigation Branch and to the Traffic Branch. Their training will be such as to give them a good grasp of Police requirements, and should they subsequently be successful in securing appointment to the Police Force on attaining the age of 21 years, the experience gained will prove of great benefit to them and of considerable advantage to the Department. So far the system has every indication of being thoroughly successful.

As a result of a careful survey of Police telephone services, considerable savings were made by discontinuing various telephones. Moreover, a separate Police telephone service is now being established as B.O.30, and this will effect further economies.

A trial was made of forwarding "Requests to Attend Court" by ordinary post instead of registered post. The trial proved satisfactory, and this method of issuing the "Requests" is being continued. A substantial annual saving in postage is thereby being made.

The equipment of the Criminal Investigation Branch has been improved in a number of directions, e.g., supply of new apparatus in connection with the study of forensic ballistics and new photographic apparatus for use in the Photographic Section.

A special Syllabus of Instruction has been adopted in connection with the training of Police Recruits, and a staff of three highly qualified Police Instructors was selected and appointed for the purpose of carrying out the syllabus and seeing that Police recruits receive the best possible training prior to engaging in active Police duty.

Police Box System.—The system of erecting Police Boxes in suitable localities was extended to various parts of the city and suburbs during 1933. The number of additional Police Boxes established during the year was fourteen. This number includes four buildings which were formerly Police Stations but have been converted into Police Boxes. By the application of this system a large annual saving has been effected in payment of rentals for premises formerly occupied by resident Constables in various localities. At the same time, however, there has been no decrease in the amount of Police protection afforded to any area by the adoption of the Police Box System. On the contrary, it has made more Police available and provided better protection through the saving of time formerly taken up in proceeding to and from Police Stations, beats, etc., while telephone facilities provided at the boxes make it possible for Police to be sent within a few minutes to any particular spot where their presence is urgently required. A full list of the Police Boxes erected up to the 31st December, 1933, will be found further on in this report under the heading "Police Boxes Established." The list includes those actually erected but not in service at the end of the year.

A reorganisation of that portion of the Metropolitan District which was formerly the Eastern Police District has been carried out and as a result several stations have been closed. Other arrangements have been made, however, which will ensure even more effective Police protection to the particular localities concerned.

A Committee appointed by the Government to inquire into Police pay and conditions generally carried out its investigations and furnished its report. Subsequently authority was given for the number of Sergeants 3rd Class and Constables 1st Class in the Police Force to be increased by 25 and 150 respectively.

MISSING FRIENDS.

During 1933 the Department dealt with 2,050 inquiries relating to missing friends or relations, as against 1,779 dealt with during 1932. The inquiries were successful in 1,321 cases as compared with 1,199 in the previous year. Of these inquiries, 1,311 originated within the British Empire, including the Commonwealth but not New South Wales, and 149 were received from foreign countries or Consular representatives of such. The rest were inquiries from persons residing within the State.

ACTS OF BRAVERY.

On numerous occasions members of the Police Force have displayed bravery in the performance of their duties. The following are typical instances which occurred during 1933:—

On 15th March, 1933, a woman fell into the water from a wharf at Walsh Bay and was in danger of being jammed between the wharf and a steamer. Constable C. S. Baxter courageously jumped into the water and effected a rescue.

On the 18th March, at about 11·20 p.m., a woman fell into Darling Harbour when attempting to land from a launch at Erskine-street Wharf. Constable C. S. J. Gold, who was on duty, heard her scream and immediately plunged in and supported her until a rope was passed to him by the launch driver. The woman was then hauled ashore.

On the 7th May, during the early hours of the morning, two men entered the Berala Railway Station Booking Office and were disturbed by Constables P. R. Clifton and E. Bowling. Several shots were fired at the Police. One of the offenders escaped. The other, however, was secured after a violent struggle, during which he wounded the Police by striking them with a steel instrument.

On the 28th September, at about 11·15 p.m., Constables C. C. Newton and L. H. Cooney were on duty watching the Carlingford Railway Station owing to the prevalence of safe-blowing at unattended stations. They saw a man force the window and called on him to stand. The man was closely pursued by the Police, and on being fired at fired five shots at Constable Newton at a distance of only a few yards. The Constable was wounded in the shoulder, but the offender was captured. In view of the bravery displayed by the Police on this occasion the Chief Secretary has approved of the promotion of Constable Newton to the rank of Constable 1st Class from 1st January, 1934, and of the granting of an additional one year's seniority to Constable Cooney. In addition, both Constables have been recommended for the award of the King's Police Medal.

On the 2nd October, 1933, Constable 1st Class W. J. McPhee displayed bravery in going to the rescue of a man in difficulties in the flood waters at the Gara River near Armidale. The Constable's prompt action in all probability saved the man's life.

ESTABLISHMENT.

Appendix E.—The actual strength of the New South Wales Police Force at the 31st December, 1933, including 16 trackers and 30 Police Cadets, was 3,608. Particulars concerning the distribution of the total in the various ranks of the Force are given in Appendix E.

TRANSFERS.

During the year there were twenty-two transfers of Police to more congenial climates, as follows:-Six men from the Dubbo District, six from the Broken Hill District, and ten from or within the Riverina

POLICE BUILDINGS.

During the year new Police buildings were erected at several centres, and additions, repairs and renovations were effected to existing premises. New buildings are, however, still required at a number of centres throughout the State, chiefly in the country districts, either to replace existing premises, dilapidated and out of date, or to reduce expenditure in the rental of premises for Police Station purposes. Approval has been given for the acquirement from the Railway Department of a site adjoining the Central Police Court, Liverpool-street, Sydney, for Police and Justice Department purposes, and action is being taken in that direction. It would be in the public interest and make for increased efficiency in Police administration if a suitable building could be erected on the site mentioned, capable of comfortably accommodating the staff of the present Police Headquarters, as well as the Criminal Investigation and Traffic Branches. Additional Police Boxes erected up to the 31st December last will be found under the heading "Police Boxes Established."

PISTOL LICENSES.

Upon the introduction of the Pistol License Act No. 10 of 1927 the responsibility for the licensing of pistols was placed upon the Police. Previously under the Gun License Act, 1920, licenses were issued by the Clerks of Petty Sessions. A very large increase in the number of pistol licenses and the frequency of the use of such weapons in the commission of crime necessitated a strict supervision of the issue of pistol licenses. While the Act provides only for the keeping of a record of licenses issued at each Police Station, it was considered advisable for the better control of this work to establish a central pistol license record at Police Headquarters. This was commenced in 1930 and the record shows that the number of licenses of all kinds was as follows :-

Year.	Ordinary.	Dealers.	Special Constables.	Total.
1930	 13,148	89	192	13,429
1931	 16,360	85	240	16,685
1932	 16,559	95	411	17,065
1933	 15,888	94	316	16,298

These figures include weapons held by banks and other business institutions, privately engaged watchmen and householders. Pistol dealers' licenses in force in 1933 numbered 94.

The record maintained shows the name and address of the pistol license holder, the number and full description of each pistol or revolver, and a separate numerical index facilitates the identification of any weapon previously licensed which may be found at the scene of a crime. The revenue derived from the pistol license fees for the year 1933 amounted to £8,034 10s.

A Commonwealth Proclamation prohibiting the importation of concealable arms except with the written permission of the Customs Authorities was issued on the 16th March, 1933, and has been the means of strengthening the control of Police upon the importation of concealable arms, inasmuch as the granting by the Customs Authorities of any such permission is subject to application being made in the first place to the Commissioner of Police for the necessary form of permit to import and its endorsement by the Commissioner of Police. Twenty-five such applications were dealt with during the year 1933, the first one being on the 28th April. Nineteen applications were granted, and in six cases the Commissioner's endorsement being withheld, permission was refused. One pistol being imported was confiscated.

Suggestions have been made of amendments to the Pistol License Act No. 10 of 1927 which are designed to afford better Police supervision of the sale and licensing of concealable arms of all descriptions. Investigation shows that there has been a marked decrease in the number of pistols sold in the year 1933 as compared with the previous year.

Instruction to Police in First-aid and Life-saving Methods.

Each member of the Force, on his admission to the Service, undergoes a thorough course of instruction in First-aid and Life-saving methods. On the 31st December, 1933, the number of Police in New South Wales holding Ambulance Certificates was 2,963 and 875 held Life-saving certificates. Many of the latter are also in possession of the Royal Life Saving Society's Medallion.

NEW SOUTH WALES POLICE BAND.

Frequent requests are received by the Department for the attendance of the Police Band at functions of a charitable and patriotic nature, and during 1933 the number of such functions in which the band took part was 31. The band also attended the funerals of the late Sergeants Rochford, McKeon, Fitzgerald and Magill, and Constables Croke, Brown, Stephenson and Clisdell, as well as the usual Commemoration murch through the city streets on Anzac Day.

CONDUCT OF POLICE.

With few exceptions, the conduct of the Police throughout the State during 1933 was excellent, and despite the shortage in Police strength they handled efficiently the large volume of Police work which required attention.

APPENDICES.

In addition to the appendices already referred to in this report, a table is attached (Appendix F) containing particulars regarding nationalities of members of the Police Force.

Yours faithfully,

W. H. CHILDS, Inspector-General of Police.
