ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

POLICE DEPARTMENT

FOR THE YEAR 1917.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

(ANNUAL REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1917.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 13 August, 1918.

The Inspector-General of Police to The Honorable the Chief Secretary.

Police Department, Inspector-General's Office, Sydney, 1 May, 1918. I have the honor to submit the Annual Report covering the operations of the Police Department for the year ended 31st December, 1917.

Criminal Statistics for the State Generally.

In the first place, I would invite attention to the return contained in Appendix A. The figures Appendix A shown therein embrace all cases which have been dealt with by the Police, either by apprehension or summons, and the following table will afford a comparison with the corresponding figures for the years 1914, 1915, and 1916:-

	1914.	1915.	1916.	1917.		Decrease of er 1916.
	10.11				Increase.	Decrease.
Offences against the person	 5,132	4,685	4,290	3,850		440
Offences against property with violence	 1.452	1,480	1,572	1,331		241
Offences against property without violence	 6,206	6,731	6,603	5,878		725
Offences against the currency	 123	110	94	56		38
Offences against good order	 53,689	42,210	39,956	35,787		4,169
Offences not included in the preceding	 25,865	27,238	28,400	23,795		4,605
	92,467	82,454	80,915	70,697		10,218
Total decrease					•••	10,218

The decrease of 10,218 in the number of cases proceeded against by the Police would appear at General review first sight phenomenal, but upon careful examination of the details in Appendix A, it will be seen that the year decrease does not represent any abnormal reduction in the state of serious crime, nor any considerable falling off in the number of such cases proceeded against by the Police. Moreover, the decrease of 4,169 talling off in the number of such cases proceeded against by the Police. Moreover, the decrease of 4,169 under the heading "offences against good order" is mainly made up of a reduction in the number of cases of drunkenness and using obscene, threatening, and abusive language. There was a reduction in 1916 over 1915, and a reduction in 1915 over 1914, showing that there has been a gradual tendency towards the reduction of offences under this heading, the amount of the decrease on the present occasion being accentuated by the existence of "Early Closing," which was not in full operation in 1916 until the 1st July of that year. The reduction of 4,605, under the heading of "offences not elsewhere included," comprises a reduction in the number of technical offences under the Commonwealth Electoral Act, the Local Covernment Act, and Ordinances, the Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act, and the Public Government Act and Ordinances, the Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act, and the Public Instruction Act, the whole of which taken together more than account for the total decrease quoted.

These are for the most part purely technical offences and do not represent cases of serious crime. In considering the total decrease it is also necessary to take into consideration the comparison shown in the Chart. Chart reproduced in Appendix A, showing at a glance a comparison between the total population, the number of persons proceeded against, and the working strength of the Force. The Chart tends to show that the number of cases proceeded against is determined to a large extent by the population and by the strength of the Force available.

With regard to the total number of more serious classes of offences recorded in the Police Gazette, Serious offence the figures show a net decrease of 1,077 cases, as compared with 1916 (details are included in Appendix B). Police Gazette. The decrease in 1916, as compared with 1915, was 308.

Appendix B.

* 29833 58-A The

The totals shown include increases under the following headings:—Murder, 4; manslaughter, 1; infanticide, 6; bodies of infants found, 1; criminal assaults on young girls, 2; unnatural offences, 5; bank robberies, 3; mail robberies, 4; garrotting, 6; wounding and assaults, 7; bigamy, 7; abduction, 1; spurious soin uttoud 6; and abillary found and assaults, 7; bigamy, 7; spurious coin uttered, 6; and children found abandoned, 13. The significant feature of these increases is found particularly in the number of cases regarding child life—bodies of infants found, infanticide, and children found abandoned—offences which are at all times difficult to cope with. Although rewards have been offered in the two former classes of crime, and special efforts made by the police generally, few offenders have been brought to justice. As regards the other increases mentioned, offenders have in almost every instance been arrested and brought to justice.

The principal decreases for the year under review are as follow: -Attempted murder, 4; rape and attempts, 4; indecent assaults on women, 4; arson, &c., 10; robbery under arms, 13; assault and robbery, 22; stealing from the person, 41; forged bank notes uttered, 26; embezzlement, 58; burglaries, &c., 114; horses stolen, 105 cases; cattle stolen, 66 cases; sheep stealing, 9; and a further decrease of 422 in the number of reports of jewellery lost or doubtfully stolen as compared with a decrease of 280 cases reported in 1916.

Eight hundred and eighty-seven head of large stock were reported as stolen during the year, as against 1,158 in 1916. Of this year's total, 281 have been traced. In the case of sheep, 92 reports of these having been stolen were received as compared with 101 reports in the preceding year. these cases the sheep have since been found. Special steps have now been taken to deal with offences of stock stealing, &c., and officers with an aptitude for following up such offences have been set apart to conduct special investigations. These arrangements have already met with considerable success.

Breaches of Immigration Restriction Act show a considerable decrease, the Samingration Restriction Act show a considerable decrease, the Samingration Restriction Act being 67 in 1916, and 18 in 1917, no doubt the result of existing conditions, lack of shipping, &c.

Prisoners

Breaches of Section 463 of the Crimes Act by prisoners discharged on license show an Increase of 8 in 1916 over the year 1915. 318 first offenders were discharged under the provisions of the Crimes Act, being an increase of 3; of the total, 91 were convicted at higher courts, and 227 at lower courts. There were 11 breaches of the conditions of release during the year under the Act, this number being the same as in the previous

There was a further reduction of 66 in the number of cases of wife and child desertion, as compared with a decrease of 332 cases in 1916. The figures for the years 1915, 1916, and 1917 are 1,129 cases, 797 cases, and 731 cases respectively.

The committals to Circuit Courts and Courts of Quarter Sessions totalled 1,153, a decrease of 183.

One case of extradition-to New Zealand-occurred during the year. One thousand three hundred and thirteen inquests were held on the bodies of deceased persons, as against 1,424 in 1916. In 120 cases, death was attributed, either directly or indirectly, to intemperance. There were 140 inquests on fires, being an increase of 17 over 1916. Of these, 26 were returned as wilful, 8 as accidental, whilst, in the other 106 cases, the cause was not specified.

Since the date on which the Habitual Criminals Act was assented to—20th September, 1905—72 persons have been declared to be habitual criminals, viz. :-

Twenty-seven habitual criminals were under detention on the 31st December, 1917, and one man was returned to his former custody.

Important Criminal Cases.

The following murder cases dealt with during the year may, perhaps, be specially mentioned,

The murder of a woman at Summer Hill, at the residence of her father, by a man who was employed as a chauffeur by the latter, the offender afterwards committing suicide. The murder of a woman at Broken Hill towards the end of 1916; in this case the body of the deceased woman was found in an old shaft, and although conclusive evidence could not be procured, the police have no doubt that the woman was murdered by her husband, who shot himself on the day of the inquest. The brutal murder of a girl at Rockdale by a man, who was subsequently executed for the offence. The murder of a woman at Komersh by her hysband, offender of the murder of a woman at Kogarah by her husband; offender afterwards gave himself up at the local police station; he was committed for trial on the charge of wilful murder, and later declared to be insane. The murder at Katoomba of a visitor at the California boarding-house; deceased was struck with a hammer whilst asleep, and death ensued two days later; two brothers were committed for trial for this offence; the sentence in one case was penal servitude for life, and in the other case the offender was found not guilty. The murder of his wife by a man at Luskintyre, near Lochinvar; the deceased woman had initiated divorce proceedings against her husband, and on refusing to withdraw the proceedings, she was shot by her husband, who thereupon himself committed suicide. The murder of a man at Louth Park, West Maitland, by a woman with whom he had been keeping company; the woman gave herself up to the police, and was found guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. The murder of a man at a hotel, near Wellington, by the licensee, with whose wife it was alleged deceased had been unduly familiar; offender was committed for trial for wilful murder, and subsequently acquitted. The murder at Tumbarumba of a woman by her uncle, who afterwards committed suicide. The murder of a child on a farm at Briarwood, near Narromine; in this case the child was found strangled in a chaff shed; an employee on the farm was arrested, and charged with the offence; he was found guilty, and sentenced to death; an appeal was lodged on his behalf, but the sentence was later affirmed; sentence is still in abeyance pending the decision of the Executive Council. The murder of a quarter caste aboriginal woman residing on a reserve near Urana, was also dealt with during the year; in this case the evidence was not conclusive; death was caused by a pea rifle, but at the inquest the jury were unable to arrive at a decision as to who committed the murder. A further case was the murder of a woman at Wagga Wagga by a man with whom she had been keeping company; the offender was unable to dispose of the body, and it was discovered by the police the following morning under his bed; he was then arrested, and shortly afterwards committed suicide in his cell by taking prussic acid which he had concealed in his clothing; at the inquest a verdict of murder and suicide was returned, and a rider was added expressing the thanks of the community to the police for so promptly clearing up the crime.

Important Arrests.

The following arrests may, perhaps, be mentioned:—The arrest at Albury by the local police of two daring criminals whilst passing through the town by motor car from Melbourne; these men, masked and armed, entered the Middle Park Branch of the English, Scottish, and Australian Bank, bailed up an official and robbed the bank of over £500, the greater part of which was recovered on arrest. The offenders were each sentenced at Melbourne to fifteen years' penal servitude, and also declared to be habitual criminals. The arrest within a few days of committing the offence of two men and a woman in connection with a daring safe burglary at Newtown; the male offenders were convicted, and each received a sentence of ten years' penal servitude and were ordered to make restitution in the sum of £500; both male offenders are particularly daring burglars, and their conviction led to the arrest of a man on a charge of feloniously receiving the whole of the stolen property, as well as jewellery, to the value of £2,000, which, it is alleged, was stolen by these men in Melbourne, and proceeds of other robberies committed by them in Sydney. The officers responsible for bringing them to justice received the commendation of the presiding judge and prosecuting counsel. The arrest and conviction of an offender for twenty charges of stealing letters from pillar-boxes in the city and suburbs. The arrest and conviction of a military officer for defrauding the Commonwealth Government of £67,000. The arrest of a bank official for defrauding a bank of £14,000. The arrest of an offender for embezzling £11,000 from a city firm. The arrest of five offenders and two receivers in connection with the thefts of magnetos from motor cars has been the means of checking that class of offence as well as recovering a number of the stolen articles. The arrest and conviction of a notorious criminal who was the ringleader of a desperate gang of garrotters; this conviction was of considerable importance from a police point of view, and the offender was eventually sentenced to seven years' hard labour.

Criminal Statistics for the Metropolitan District.

As the criminal statistics for the Metropolitan District constitute a large proportion of the figures for the whole of the State, special reference to the state of crime is warranted by the population and vast

During the year 24,913 persons were arrested, and 4,416 proceeded against by summons, making a Apprehensions total of 29,329 (5,481 being females), as compared to 70,697 cases dealt with throughout the whole State. and summons a Last year a total number of 30,508 Metropolitan cases were dealt with. This year's figures, therefore, show a decrease of 1,179 on the previous year. The total number of cases dealt with by the Metropolitan Police under the different headings are as follow:—

	1914.	1915.	1916.	1917.	Increase or Decrease of 1917 over 1916.
	1.040	1.000	1 500	7 454	D 145

Totals	34,816	30,410	30,508	29,329	Decrease 1,179

The decrease under "offences against the person" is principally due to the remarkable decline in the offences against crimes of assault and robbery, robbery under arms, common assault, and assaulting police. There is an the person. increase of sixty-eight in the wife and child desertion cases, compared with last year.

e of sixty-eight in the wife and child desertion cases, compared to breaking and entering, offences against property with violence" is confined to breaking and entering, offences against property with violence. burglary, and malicious damage to property.

The decrease in "offences against property without violence" is largely accounted for in the offences of against property without violence, against property without violence, against property without violence, out violence. of simple larceny, stealing, and embezzlement.

In "offences against good order" there is an increase of 493 in cases of drunkenness, and 133 in Offences against riotous or indecent behaviour, as compared with last year. However, in other offences under this heading good order. there is a decrease of 650, the total increase being only 6.

In comparing the figures under this heading with those for the whole State it will be noticed that whilst in the Metropolitan District there has been an increase in the year of 493 cases of drunkenness, in the whole State there has in the same period been a decrease of 1,894 cases of the kind.

During the year 6,986 offences were reported, as against 8,131 for 1916. These figures for 1917 offences include 3,499 cases of simple larceny, and of the total number (6,986), 4,647, or 66 per cent. were cleared up, which compares favourably with 1916, when 65 per cent. of the total number of similar offences reported were cleared up. The total offences (6,986), include 5,296 cases of more serious crime reported of which 2,265 cases. reported, of which 3,368 cases, or 64 per cent. were cleared up.

Missing

Missing Friends

One thousand three hundred and forty-six inquiries have been made in regard to missing friends. Tois number includes 503 inquiries from Great Britain and other parts of the Empire, and 150 from foreign countries. Of the total number, $93 have been traced. By comparison, it may be stated that out of 1,468 inquiries received during the previous year, 1,002 were traced.

Finger Prints.

As will be seen from the return furnished in Appendix C, 1,870 identifications of offenders were uring the year. This number again shows a slight decrease on that of 1916. Six thousand and Appendix C. As will be seen a Identifications. made during the year.

thirty-four prints were dealt with.

Finger-prints as sole evidence.

Seven cases, in which finger-prints practically constituted the sole evidence, were brought before the various Courts, and convictions obtained. In one case, some prints on pieces of broken glass led to the arrest of a notorious female burglar who had been responsible for breaking into places in the Redfern District. Some of the proceeds of the robberies were found in her possession, and she was sentenced to three years' hard labour.

During 1917, 332 articles were examined in the Finger Print Branch, whilst 138 outside inspections were conducted.

Identification of deceased persons.

Examinations

The finger-prints of thirty-one unknown deceased persons were taken, and nine of the bodies identified by this means. Under ordinary circumstances all these persons would have been classified as "unknown," and buried accordingly, every other possible means of obtaining clues as to identity having

The docket system of recording criminal histories was brought into operation during the year, and it has amply proved its utility.

A statement is also contained in Appendix C, showing the extent of the interchange of fingerprint records between New South Wales and other places, and the results achieved in identifying such Criminal photographs.

During 1917 the negatives of 870 criminal photographs were received from the Prisons Department, with a view to the distribution of prints in the usual manner. Copies of these photographs have been prepared, where necessary, and 9,570 were sent to the various States and New Zealand, while 30,450 copies were supplied to the city and country districts for the use of the Police in this State. 1,172 photographs were received by the Department from other States of the Commonwealth and New Zealand.

Water Police.

Shipping at Sydney.

During the year, the work of the Water Police was again very heavy. They attended 1,623 vessels entering and leaving the port. In addition to these vessels they attended 51 troopships, and 22 vessels carrying returned soldiers; the embarkation and disembarkation of troops being carried out without accident or loss of life.

Constant supervision and attention have also been given to the very busy ferry traffic.

Registration of aliens.

The work of registering aliens arriving at Sydney and Newcastle from overseas has increased in Rescues effected.

During the year, police launches were responsible for the rescue without loss of life of the crews of eleven capsized sailing boats.

Twenty-nine dead bodies were recovered from the harbour, in many instances after dragging operations lasting several days had been resorted to.

ditions, this has been largely balanced, so far as employment and other activities are concerned, by the establishment of other highly important and extensive private and Government works.

Metropolitan Licensing Inspection.

Hotels.

On the 31st December, 1917, there were 628 hotels in the Metropolitan District, being a decrease of 10 during the year, viz.:—8 were closed by order of the special court and 2 allowed to lapse.

Objections to licenses.

Eleven objections to the renewal of publicans' licenses were lodged by the police during the year, -3 on the grounds of structural defects, and 8 in cases in which objection was taken to the manner in which the hotels were conducted. As a result, 6 of the renewals were granted, 3 refused, and 2 withdrawn.

General review

The number of additional bars has increased by 3 during the year, and the number of registered clubs decreased by 1. Building improvements have been made in various centres. liquor taken from hotels in the Metropolitan Licensing District were found on analysis to contain nothing deleterious or injurious.

A statement of the convictions under the Liquor Acts will be found in Appendix D.

There has been a reduction during the year in the number of Spirit Merchants', Packet, and Colonial Wine licenses, whilst the number of Brewers' licenses remains the same.

Appendix D.

Returns are appended (vide Appendix D) showing the business dealt with during the year 1917, and also the number of licenses in existence in the Metropolitan District on the 31st December of each year 1892 to 1917.

Traffic.

Motor vehicles.

During the year, 5,000 new motor cars, 433 new motor lorries, and 2,559 new motor cycles have been registered. There were, in all, 17,508 cars, 1,336 motor lorries, 8,087 motor cycles, 308 motor cabs (taxis), 28 motor 'buses, and 45 motor vans registered during the year. The total registration and licenses issued under all headings increased from 59,388 to 78,522, and the revenue received from license fees and tax on motor vehicles increased from £83,671 19s. 5d. to £103,840 ls. 8d. It is interesting to note that, whilst motor cars for ordinary use by private citizens only increased from 13,224 to 14,701, "private hire cars" increased from 357 to 1,254. The large increase in the latter is no doubt due to the fact that cars so registered are entitled to pay only half the amount of tax payable on an ordinary private car, and the question of the effect upon the revenue is now engaging attention.

Public vehicles have been c ntinuously inspected by day and night, and are in fairly serviceable Public vehicles. condition.

During the year 733 horses were reported as being used in an unfit condition in public streets. Unfit horses. The owners were directed to discontinue their use until the horses had been submitted and passed. Seventy-three convictions were obtained for bad offences of this description or for actual cruelty.

Of 840 articles left in public vehicles and returned to this office by drivers, 357 were claimed by Lot preperty. the owners, who paid £43 19s. 7d. as compensation to the drivers.

The number of drivers convicted for being under the influence of drink whilst in charge of public privers convicted. vehicles decreased from 78 to 52.

In the Metropolitan District 2,665 accidents occurred, 562 in connection with trams, of which 9 Accidents. were fatal; 1,180 in connection with motor vehicles, of which 26 were fatal; and 588 in connection with horse vehicles, of which 11 were fatal.

Regulations under the Metropolitan Traffic Act and the Motor Traffic Act have been amended and New added to in several respects, particularly in regard to "glaring head-lights," insufficient "rear-lights," regulations and noisy machines, including the use of "cut-outs," &c. These laws will be more strictly enforced now that the public have had time to become acquainted with them, and should prove of public benefit.

The revenue under the Metropolitan Traffic Act amounted to £3,879 7s. 6d., being an increase of Revenue. £393 6s. 6d. as compared with 1916.

The total revenue from all sources amounted to £107,719 9s. 2d. as compared with £87,158 0s. 5d.

Detailed statements are shown in Appendix E of the traffic work performed during the year.

Classes of instruction in "traffic duty" were commenced during the year. These classes are to be Casses of continued, and instruction will be extended to every Sergeant in the Metropolitan District.

Legislation.

The Regulations under the Metropolitan Traffic Act, 1900, as amended by Act No. 6 of 1913, and Traffic the Motor Traffic Act, 1909, have been altered and amended during the year, and were published in the regulations. Government Gazette on the 11th May, 1917.

This matter has again been brought under notice during the year owing to the conduct of Proposed fraudulent horse-dealers. The fraud is carried out almost openly, and the unsuspecting public are deal with victimised by unprincipled dealers, who, whilst verbally purporting to give guarantees as to the good fraudulent horse-dealers. condition of horses and vehicles, deny responsibility for any such guarantees after obtaining payment of money. The necessity for legislation to cover this class of offence is very apparent.

The attention of the Chief Secretary was directed during the year to the action of a large number the cupulous of fruiterers, who placed choice fruit in the front of their windows and inferior fruit at the back, the interpring " public being served with the latter at the prices proclaimed for the former. Unfortunately there is no fruit. Act in force in this State to deal with the trouble, but it is understood the Government proposes to take into consideration the question of introducing a bill framed on the lines of the Act now in existence in Victoria, which makes punishable, offences of this kind. Meanwhile the police have been instructed to exercise a close surveillance over the sale of fruit.

General Work of the Department.

The work coped with during the year 1917 has been of an extremely arduous nature, and all Additional members of the Force have been called upon to perform extra work. The continuance of the war places upon the police numerous duties of a highly important nature. Owing to the absence on active service of ninety-three members of the Police Force, and the difficulty of obtaining suitable recruits, the Force is considerably undermanned. Throughout the year the police have co-operated with the military authorities and other departments, &c., to the fullest extent.

The police have continued to perform the duties entailed in the registration of aliens in this State. Registration of aliens. The various phases of the War Precautions Act, and the administration of the Unlawful War Precautions Act, &c., have also necessitated increased attention on the part of the police.

Associations Act, &c., have also necessitated increased attention on the part of the police.

Associations Act, &c., ac. Associations Act, &c., have also necessitated increased attention on the part of the police.

The early closing of hotels has called for special supervision in the direction of preventing illegal Early closing of hotels. traffic in liquor.

It is satisfactory to note that the number of betting shops and night clubs has steadily decreased Betting shops and, notwithstanding that considerable apprehension seemed to exist years ago concerning night clubs, it and night clubs is safe to assume that this evil is now practically non-existent.

The Police Surgeon reports that as far as the Metropolitan District is concerned, 1917 appears to Health of pelice. have been a very good year, the average sickness being much less than in former years.

During the year most serious floods have occurred in the Murray District and elsewhere. In n.any Floods. instances the police have been the means of affording assistance and relief to persons affected.

The Police Instruction Classes continue to give highly satisfactory results.

The general strike of 1917 was unique in the wides read effect it was calculated to produce in the General strike. threatened dislocation of industrial activities throughout the State. The strike commenced in the first week in August with the calling out of tramway and railway employees, and continued till early in October, when the last phase of the matter was entered upon by the return to work of the coal mine employees. This serious industrial disturbance cast upon the Police Force, already undermanned, an unprecedented amount of extra work of an exceedingly difficult and responsible nature. So soon as the magnitude of the intended strike operations was realised, and the attitude of the Government was made known, it was apparent that in order to provide for the adequate protection of life and property, in face of the uncertain elements that might from time to time arise, not only would the full strength of the police service be taxed to its uttermost, but it would be necessary to augment the number of regular police by the appointment of special constables for the carrying out of certain tasks. Action in this direct on was accordingly taken. Altogether 521 special constables were sworn in, amongst whom were 29 warders in the employment of the Prisons Department. Government Departments and business firms in the city and suburbs took the precaution of having employees sworn in, appointments in this connection numbering 454. Many loyal citizens came forward and voluntarily offered their services to the Department, no less than 549 of there being sworn in, in an honorary capacity in case of emergency, while others who were found to be well suited for temporary police employment were appointed as special constables. The latter were assigned duties, such as guarding trains and trains, Government workshops, and other places, acting as escorts to conveyances in charge of voluntary workers, and to replace regular police relieved for more important duties. It was found necessary to withdraw members of the Force from country stations of least importance, for duty at Broken Hill and other centres where the local strength was inadequate. Batches of police were also sent to certain collieries with a view to providing protection to voluntary workers and mine property. Serious disturbances arose at Broken Hill in the early stages of the upheaval, when it became necessary to call in a number of South Australian police to assist the local police until the arrival of reinforcements from Sydney. Special precautionary measures were taken in connection with the great increase of general vehicular traffic owing to the partial discontinuance of train and tram services, and there was a very small increase in the number of street accidents.

Throughout the whole course of the strike the greatest energy was exercised and all possible precautions taken to prevent anything of a serious nature occurring, such as might lead to persons or property being endangered, and it is satisfactory to record that very few incidents of a regrettable character happened. Some cases of alleged intimidation of voluntary workers by strikers were attended to, but more serious offences arising directly out of the strike were remarkably few.

Police motor vehicles.

The patrol motor has been in continuous use during the year. Regular visits are made to the city parks in the morning, at midday, and in the evening, and in addition to this work, all necessary assistance is rendered in taking prisoners to the lockups. This has been the means of clearing the vicinity of the various city parks from the presence of drunks and other offenders. The motor cycles in the Metropolitan District have again proved of very considerable value in general police work, and especially in the regulation of traffic in the suburbs adjoining the city. Constables who have been trained in traffic work have been found to be the most suitable for this duty.

Cost of running.

During the year the cost of running the motor cars and motor cycles used by the Department amounted to £1,825 12s. 7d, exclusive of depreciation and drivers' wages. The number of miles driven was 128,927, at an average cost of 6 15d, per mile for motor cars and of 1.27d, per mile for motor cycles. Attention is invited to comparative statement in schedule showing the work performed by the motor cars and motor cycles during 1917.

Men on active military service.

Appendix E.

At 31st December, 1917, 158 members of the Police Force and 6 clerks from the Inspector-General's Office had enlisted for active service abroad, making a total of 164 for the Department. Of this number, 38 have made the supreme sacrifice, and 33 have returned and been discharged from military service. Of the latter number, 28 have resumed duty, 3 have resigned, and 2 have unfortunately been certified as medically unfit for further police duty.

The following distinctions have been notified:—

 S. Pender, mentioned in despatches for meritorious work at the Dardanelles; (2) G. Kirkpatrick, awarded the Military Medal; (3) George Wright, awarded the Meritorious Service Medal.

The following men gained Commissions:-

Captain F. C. E. Geyer; Lieutenants C. L. A. Abbott, S. W. Coleman, H. W. Gilchrist (deceased), James Home (deceased), P. J. Martin, J. A. Millar, John Roseigh, George Ward, E. E. Wright (deceased), J. B. Moylan, W. J. Teasdale, W. C. R. Smith (deceased), E. Clark (deceased), A. G. A. Walters, and T. J. Pattinson.

The sympathy of all grades of the Force is extended to the relatives and friends of the men who have fallen.

Appendix F.

A Roll of Honour is contained in Appendix F.

Patriotic funds.

Apart from providing contributions by individual members of the Force to local or other patriotic movements, the police have been either directly or indirectly responsible for the raising of contributions to patriotic funds amounting in all to £18,942 since the commencement of the war. This sum includes the proceeds from two very highly successful carnivals conducted in conjunction with the Metropolitan Fire Brigade, and also an amount of £1,705 (profit of the 1917 carnival) which is devoted to meeting necessitous cases arising in connection with members of both services. The returns for the 1918 carnival are of course not included in these figures, but there is every promise of a substantial sum being secured.

Trans'ers from outlying districts. In addition to the ordinary transfers to fill vacancies, arrangements have been made during the year, so far as possible, consistent with economy and efficiency, to transfer men at their own request to more congenial or convenient stations. In the matter of transfers from outlying districts, 5 men were transferred from the South Western District, 3 from Broken Hill, and 7 from Bourke.

New stations.

During the year new stations were established at the following places, viz. :-

Bourke District Hermidale.

Murray District Matong.

Eastern District Police have been temporarily stationed at Cordeaux.

Stations closed.

The following stations were closed:—Laurieton (North-Eastern District); Merimbula (Southern District); Dennawan and Canonbar (Bourke District); Grahamstown and Downfalls (temporary station) (Murray District).

Establishment.

On the 31st December, 1917, the Force numbered 2,596, as against 2,628 on the 31st December, Details of the strength of the Force and the manner in which the police are distributed throughout the State are furnished in Appendix G.

Appendix G.

Changes of General Conduct of the Police.

With the exception of isolated instances, which have been suitably dealt with, no serious General conduct misconduct has come under notice during the year. The police have cheerfully responded to the heavy of the police. call made upon them owing to the reduced strength of the Force, consequent upon the absence of a number of men on military service and the difficulty of obtaining suitable recruits. As has been mentioned earlier in this report, the grave responsibilities devolving upon the police during the strike period were tactfully and impartially met.

Appointments, dec.

During the year, 810 applications were received for police employment. Of this number, 271 were applications for found unsuitable on the grounds of being under standard height, indifferent horsemanship, being over and employment. under prescribed age, illiteracy, and adverse reports; 141 applicants were appointed, 191 were rejected by the police surgeon, and 207 did not proceed with their applications. Although applications were numerous, there was a dearth of suitable candidates for both branches of the Service. The following figures show the manner in which the new appointments arose, viz. :-

Murray District

The strength of Byrock, Enngonia, and Wrightville Police Stations (Bourke District) was decreased in each case by one member of the Force, and Jerangle Police Station (Southern District) was reduced by one constable. At Nyngan, a mounted constable has replaced a foot constable.

Police Buildings.

I regret to have to bring under notice the state of disrepair into which existing police buildings Necessity for are falling, and the additional expenditure which is each year being involved, by reason of the fact that repairs. rented premises have to be secured in centres where new buildings and sites for police purposes are required, or where the existing police buildings are no longer habitable. In instances in which repairs are allowed to remain in abeyance owing to the lack of funds, the buildings soon become seriously depleted in value, and the cost of effecting repairs ultimately is very considerably increased.

Estimates obtained at the beginning of the financial year showed that an amount of over £140,000 Expenditure would be required to secure new buildings and sites and effect additions and repairs. During last financial involved. year only £12,235 was expended from amounts voted on the Estimates to meet these requirements, and during the present financial year only £7,431 has been expended to date. The total amount at present being paid for rented premises amounts to over £6,000, and this amount has each year to be increased, owing to the absence of suitable premises.

Police Horses.

Good results have been obtained at the Police Stud Farm at Ridgelands, in the Muswellbrook Police herses. district. From February to September a trying drought was experienced, but there were no losses from want of feed or water, and the stock generally held their own, proving that this is good sound grazing country. At present there is an abundance of feed, and all stock are doing well. The number of stock on run is 132.

At the Police Paddock at Rooty Hill, 40 acres were put under oats during the year, from which Police Paddock, was taken about 20 tons of good hay, the value of which was above the cost of production. The lease of Rooty Hill. this paddock expires in June, 1919, and it is not proposed to renew it.

The expenditure on account of forage during 1917 has been considerably less than that for the Forage. previous year, owing no doubt to the good season experienced. The recent general strike was responsible for an additional expenditure of over £400 in connection with this item, otherwise a further saving would have been effected. List

Ambulance and Life-saving Classes.

Appendix H. Certificates

There are now 625 police of various ranks (as shown in Appendix H) who hold certificates of the St. John, Railway, or other Ambulance Associations, and whose services are without doubt valuable in rendering first-aid in cases of accident, especially in those portions of the country districts where a doctor is not available.

Life-saving certificates. Appendix I. During the year, the Royal Life-saving Society awarded twenty-eight bronze medallions and twenty-eight proficiency certificates to police classes. Police are encouraged to become proficient in life-saving, and are frequently able to assist in cases of apparent drowning. As will be seen from Appendix I, 271 police of various ranks now hold life-saving certificates or medallions.

Acts of Bravery.

During the year there have been several cases in which police have exhibited bravery in the performance of their duties. In several instances they were instrumental in rescuing persons from drowning, in stopping runaway horses, and in effecting arrests at considerable risk to themselves.

Inspections by their Excellencies the Governor-General and the State Lieutenant-Governor.

On the 28th May, 1917, His Excellency the Governor-General presented Imperial Service Medals to certain recipients at the Police Depôt, and on the 7th November, 1917, His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor presented Imperial Service Medals and also bronze medallions and proficiency certificates, awarded by the Royal Life-saving Society to a number of recipients. On both occasions a large number of Police (mounted and foot), together with the Police Band, were in attendance.

New South Wales Police Band.

The death of Captain W. G. Bentley, A.R.C.M., Police Bandmaster, in December last, is deeply regreeted. Under his direction, the band attained a very high standard of efficiency. As in former years, the band's services have been frequently availed of during the past year in connection with public and charitable functions.

Appendices.

In addition to the Appendices previously adverted to, statements are appended showing the nationality of members of the Force, ages and length of service of the police in the various grades, pensions and gratuities granted from the Police Superannuation and Reward Fund, and a list showing the buildings completed for the department and repairs effected to existing police buildings during the year.

Your obedient servant,

JAMES MITCHELL, Inspector-General of Police.

The broken red line indicates the strength of the force. The red line indicates the general population.

The black line indicates the number of persons proceeded against.

Note.—The drop in the strength of the force for the year 1915 is accounted for by the absence of 135 men on active military service, and also by a number of other vacancies which were not filled owing to the lack of suitable candidates.
