Funds granted to non government organisations

2011–12

The Department of Family and Community Services delivers a wide range of services in partnership with the non government sector. In 2011–12 FACS granted more than $2.5 billion to over 3,000 community-based services. This contribution is expected to grow over the next four years in response to reforms of current disability and out of home care services.

FACS recognises the essential role that non government organisations (NGOs) play in providing vital services to people in need. NGOs are uniquely positioned to connect with clients at a local level and to understand the issues they face. They deliver the combined advantages of providing greater flexibility for clients, increasing economic and social benefits by attracting community resources, and supporting vulnerable people to have a say in issues which affect them.

The Department also invests substantial resources into building the capacity of the non government sector so that it can continue to deliver high quality services and grow to meet future challenges.

From 1 October 2011, Housing NSW's asset functions transferred to the Department of Finance and Services. There were no funds granted to non government organisations by Businesslink in 2011–12.

* The number of payments processed under the Domestic and Family Violence Grants Program was less than that associated with anticipated finalisation of grants in the 2011/12 financial year. This was due to a significant number of funded organisations applying for extensions to their grants period as a result of project delays. Women NSW approved these extensions as per their funding agreements. Final payments for these projects are now expected to be made in 2012/13. A small number of organisations whose grant period expired in 2011/12 were also identified as having received their entire grant allocation of less than $10,000 paid up front when the grants were awarded in 2010/11.
